GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER ALL U.S. SHORT-WAVE BROADCAST STATIONS

According to press releases issued early in October the War Communications Board has approved a plan whereby the U.S. Government will take over and operate all short-wave broadcast stations in the U.S. These transmitters are to be under the direct control of the Office of War Information and the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, and are to be operated on a 24-hour basis. According to Robt. Sherwood, director of OWI's overseas operations, the new plan contemplates use of 36 transmitters in all, 14 of which are now in operation. The OWI's request for funds included $7,068,000 for the installation of 12 new stations. It is rumored that all programs will originate from the General Motors Bldg., New York.
